The USC School of Dramatic Arts’ Master of Fine Arts in Dramatic Writing (MFADW) is an intensive, intimate three-year program presented in association with the USC School of Cinematic Arts. A mentor-based, practicing literary arts program within an elite research university, the MFADW is designed to mine the literary potential of the artist in the hope of preparing the artist to engage meaningfully in global society and the profession. Underlying the program is the belief that literary art in the theatrical context is central to human existence, and aids in illuminating the human condition which is the source and the destination of all writing. The program aims to help the student utilize his or her innate artistry to build excellence.

The program is the only one of its kind located in a region where all spheres of arts and entertainment intersect — the City of Los Angeles, the preeminent site of opportunity for today’s dramatic writer.

The USC MFADW approaches dramatic writing through its critical roots in playwriting and then investigates beyond this foundation into adaptation, screenwriting, television writing and other cutting-edge forms of dramatic writing. The program supports production opportunities as well as a four-phase New Works Festival that includes readings, workshops, concert presentations and professional transition.

New Works Festival Year Three is a summer event offering concert readings of graduating students’ works utilizing professional directors, actors and dramaturgical responders.

Led by distinguished faculty who are working artists, the MFADW program also offers visiting artist master seminars, literary management internships, and professional programs with Center Theatre Group, which includes the Mark Taper Forum and the Ahmanson and Kirk Douglas Theatres; and The Pasadena Playhouse, State Theatre of California. Students also are exposed to a wide array of celebrated guest artists who have included Edward Albee, Tony Kushner, Amiri Baraka, David Henry Hwang and Paula Vogel; and a thesis that culminates in work that ably prepares the student for entry into the professional sphere. Graduate dramatic writing studies at the USC School of Dramatic Arts were established by Velina Hasu Houston in 1990.

PLAYWRIGHT’S BIO

Nahal Navidar is an Iranian-born playwright raised in upstate New York. Her play 110 Flights has been workshopped at the Kennedy Center Playwriting Intensive and produced at the University at Albany, Proctor’s Theatre New Play Festival, and Voices of the Marianas (Saipan, MP). Navidar has worked internationally in the Micronesian Islands, where she founded Fabulous Invalid Theatre Company to engage the voices of the Pacific and East Asian Diaspora. Short plays include Flicted (WAM Theatre, N.Y.), and The Real Pain (The Vagrancy). In 2015, Nahal will premiere her first opera, Donia, written in collaboration with music composer Julia Adolphe. This project will mark the teams first in their effort to empower female artists on the American stage. Nahal will continue her work internationally, utilizing theatre as a vehicle to raise social awareness and incite global change. Nahal thanks her family, professors, Schelly, and darling Fwizzy Fwiz.

DIRECTOR’S BIO

Robert Egan is a director, producer and dramaturge. He was Producing Artistic Director of the Mark Taper Forum for 20 seasons and was the Founding/Producing Artistic Director of its New Work Festival for 15 seasons. He was the former Associate Artistic Director of Seattle Rep and, presently, is the Artistic Director/Producer of the Ojai Playwrights Conference and President of RHEgan Productions. Directing credits include productions at the Mark Taper Forum, Kirk Douglas Theatre, Dorothy Chander Pavilion, Playwrights Horizon, Seattle Rep, Actor’s Gang, Berkeley Rep, La Jolla Playhouse and ACT Seattle. For television, he has directed episodes of Frasier and Stark Raving Mad, among others.
